Tribute to Japan is coming—January 17, 1988.

Keep it Cool. Keep it Safe—A few Words on Fire Prevention:

There have been a couple of small fires on campus in the past two weeks that could have been disastrous. In one case, a hot plate in a photo lab was left on the high setting and caused an undersized, unapproved extension cord to short out and melt, causing a small fire which damaged an adjacent carpet and wall. Fortunately, the fire did not spread to an area six feet away where potassium ferro cyanide was used for processing.

In a separate situation, a Housing resident put oil on a stove to make popcorn, left the stove unattended and the oil caught fire. No major damage or injury occurred.

It has only been about three years since the campus faced its most serious fire which caused $112,000 of damage in C-Dorm when a candle was left unattended. Fortunately, no one was seriously injured in any of these mishaps.

The time is right for a few reminders. According to State Safety Standards:

1. No applicances, extension cords or other electrical devices may be used on campus unless the items are U.L approved.

2. Open flame candles are not permitted on campus within any campus building.

3. The use of multiple extension cords from one outlet or the use of non-fused multiple outlet cords is not permitted. Ask Facilities to inspect your area if you are concerned. Call George Leago, maintenance supervisor, at X6347.

4. Hanging extension cords or other electrical wiring with push pins, nails or hooks is a fire hazard as well as a safety hazard.

5. The best protection is you, the user. Use common sense. Be aware. Notify supervisors when safety concerns arise. If you are the last one leaving the work area, take a walk through to turn off all electrical devices. When your roommates are cooking or socializing, check what's going on. In all these cases it's the people closest to the situations who can prevent hazards. If you don't know what to do, call Housing, X6132, or Facilities, X6120, for professional advice.

Christmas trees must be flame proofed prior to use anywhere on campus. Call Facilities, X6120, to arrange for free fire proofing.

Fortunately, Facilities will soon be selecting the college's first full-time Safety Officer to assist us in making the campus a safer place to be.
