FACULTY RECRUITING

Recruiting of Evergreen's first faculty was completed in early June, with the appointment of eight more persons to the instructional team. That brings the total--including the 18 holdover planning faculty--to 53. September 15 is the date for all new faculty to report. The newest appointees are:

Gregory Portnoff, instructor at Brooklyn College, New York (psychology).

Willie Parson, doctoral candidate at Washington State University (biology).

Roi Smith, instructor at Washington State University (psychology).

Cruz Esquivel, Director of the Educational Opportunity Program at Humboldt State College, California (philosophy).

Earle McNeil, caseworker with the State Department of Public Assistance, Olympia, and former instructor at University of Puget Sound (sociology).

Don Heard, instructor at Shoreline (Seattle) Community College (arts).

Gordon Beck, assistant professor, Department of Theater Arts at Cornell University (cinema arts).

Paul Marsh, instructor at Pitzer College, California and California State College at Los Angeles and a doctoral candidate, Claremont (California) Graduate School (international relations).

PLANNING CONFERENCE

All members of the planning faculty, all new faculty members and several college staff met June 13-19 for general discussions, orientation, workshops and community building. Sessions were held both on campus and at the University of Washington's Pack Forest near Mount Rainier. The meetings--which featured general discussion and orientation--included gatherings of the various Coordinated Studies and Contracted Studies teams, enabling all participants to get a jump on the work ahead of them next fall. The various teams were able to plan their programs in great detail, work out reading lists, order books, discuss specific needs with support staff members, and make summer assignments to carry forth work begun during the conference. Perhaps the most important element of the planning session was the opportunity it afforded for people who will be working together under conditions of stress to get to know each other in less frenzied circumstances. It's called community building, that sense of cohesion and cooperative momentum toward commonly shared institutional goals and concerns. This kind of team approach is critical to the success of Evergreen's plan to build a true learning community, charged with the excitement of ideas, discussion and active participation in the "real world" beyond the campus. Creation of such a learning climate takes more than commitment to ideals and processes; it requires momentum. And that we have. Or, to put it in the closing words of a well-known song, "Look Out World, Here We Come!"

PROGRAM ASSIGNMENTS

All 1971-72 faculty members have been assigned to the programs in which they will be working during opening year, according to Vice President and Provost David Barry. "Shifts in student assignments during orientation week may necessitate some shifting of faculty assignments," Barry said. "But from the care with which these program assignments have been made, we do not expect that very many shifts will be in order, either by students or faculty members." A couple of new Coordinated Studies programs --Human Behavior: Self and Society and The Evergreen Environment--have been added and two more--The Play's The Thing, and Puzzles, Games and Problem Solving--have been deferred until later in the academic year. Here are the assignments to what Dean Merv Cadwallader calls "Evergreen's Dream Teams":

Causality, Chance, Freedom-----Will Humphreys, Greg Portnoff, Fred Young, Willie Parson, Kinda Kahan.

Contemporary American Minorities-Rudy Martin.

Human Development-----Richard Jones, Nancy Taylor, Nancy Allen, Charles Pailthorp, Bob Sluss, Eric Larson.

Human Behavior: Self and Society-Richard Alexander, Ted Gerstl, Lynn Patterson, Steve Herman, Richard Brian.

Individual in America-----Willi Unsoeld, Bill Aldridge, Roi Smith, Earl McNeil, Carol Olexa, Peggy Dickinson, Pete Sinclair.

Individual, Citizen, State-----Dave Hitchens, Paul Marsh, Betty Estes, Kirk Thompson, Dave Marr.

Political Ecology-----Ed Kormondy, Dave Milne, Oscar Soule, Richard Anderson, Fred Tabbutt.

STUDENT PROGRAM ASSIGNMENTS

Vice President Barry also reports that Dean Cadwallader and a faculty task force has sent questionnaires to all firmly committed students for preliminary selection of academic programs. "On the basis of the responses, the task force, working in concert with other faculty members and the deans, has made tentative program assignments for all entering students," Barry says. "In addition to letters from Dean Cadwallader explaining these assignments, all entering students also will receive letters from the coordinators of their respective programs, welcoming them to the programs, preparing for further correspondence over the summer, and suggesting readings for orientation week discussions.'

OTHER ACADEMIC PLANNING NOTES

The Faculty Handbook has been completely revised and issued to all members of the instructional team. All sections now represent the policies and procedures which have been developed and agreed on during the planning year.

And, with the submission of final reports to serve as the basis for policies and administrative procedures, the following Disappearing Task Forces have completed their work for the planning year: Contracted Studies, Student Evaluations and Records, Faculty Evaluation and Program Evaluation, Student Orientation for 1971, Role of Coordinator and Team, Coordinated Studies, Logistics, Admissions, and Faculty Summer Orientation. Work continues on the planning of the Seminar Building, laboratory facilities, and arts facilities.

NEW STAFF MEMBERS

Rod Marrom, who has been manager of the Safety and Security Department at Seattle Community College since 1966, has been appointed Security Supervisor at Evergreen, effective July 1. Marrom will report to Executive Vice President E. J. Shoben, Jr. for the coordination of security for college students, personnel and visitors and will report to Director of Plant Operations Don Parry for provision of building security, traffic control and parking programs. He also will serve as liaison between Evergreen and the various state and local law enforcement agencies. Marrom is a former security officer for the Seattle Public School System and a former member of the Seattle Police Department.

Diana Bunn joined the Evergreen staff in May as an assistant to Bookstore Manager Doris McCarty. Diana served in a similar capacity at Pacific Lutheran University in Tacoma from 1969 until joining Evergreen. Her boss there was Doris McCarty.

COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

Day by day, Bookstore Manager Doris McCarty is moving toward Evergreen's fall opening, when a completely equipped store will be in operation. "Our emphasis will be on books, of course," she says, "But there will be a well rounded selection of all other kinds of merchandise usually found in college stores. Some of our school supplies have been ordered--spiral notebooks, filler paper, report covers, imprinted notebooks, etc. There will also be a complete art supply center, plus greeting cards, stationery and sundry items.

"Diana Bunn is compiling stock control cards for all books in the reference department. We have 1,000 titles of paperback books on order and additional titles will be ordered after lists are received from the faculty. All program book orders were received from the faculty in mid-June and we estimate that about 16,500 books will be needed for academic programs during fall quarter."

BID OPENING

Bids for constructing Evergreen's 75,000-square-foot first phase laboratory building will be opened at 3 p.m., July 8 by the State Division of Engineering and Architecture. This is the last of the projects authorized by the 1969 legislature, with completion of work expected by September, 1972. Designed by Seattle architects Naramore, Bain, Brady and Johanson, the project includes a facility of three-stories and basement. The building will house laboratories and office-seminar spaces and will have a terrarium display area near the main lobby.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Evergreen's Board of Trustees has authorized the purchasing of modular units supplied by St. Regis Paper Company of Tacoma to provide more on-campus student housing for the 1971-72 academic year. The modular buildings--arranged in a duplex configuration--will house 152 students, or four in each of the two-bedroom, 804-square-foot units. Total cost of the project will be approximately $779,650, including expenditures for laundry units, furniture, site improvements, engineering fees, administrative costs, and sales tax. The supplemental units--augmenting 450 living spaces being constructed in the student residential center--will rent for $62 per student per month. Acquisition of the housing facilities was made necessary when requests for on-campus living accommodations far exceeded the spaces available in the residence halls.

Trustees also approved a $9,500 loan from the college's general local fund to the housing and food fund to cover operating expenses of the Evergreen Housing Office from July 1 to September 30, 1971. Funds will be repaid from housing revenues on or about October 1.

And, the board elected Janet Tourtellotte of Seattle as chairman for the next year, succeeding Halvor Halvorson of Spokane. Mrs. Tourtellotte has been a member of the board since 1967. Trueman L. Schmidt of Olympia was elected vice chairman and Al Saunders of Tacoma was named secretary for 1971-72.

MORNINGSIDE REACHES ITS GOAL

Morningside, the local sheltered workshop and activity center for handicapped and retarded persons, has far exceeded the $75,000 goal in its community fund-raising campaign, launched last February. With some returns still not in, the total had neared $89,000, including about $800 from Evergreen staff and faculty. Local funds will be used along with at least $175,000 in federal and state matching money for construction of a new Morningside facility west of Olympia.

ABOUT OUR STUDENTS

Every now and then we run across an item in a newspaper which tells us about activities of students headed for Evergreen next fall. For instance, Carol Knight of Woodland High School has been chosen as a princess for that community's annual Veterans-Planters Day Festival. Sandy Davidson, a senior at Redmond High School, received a $60 scholarship during her commencement exercises and will use it here. She plans to become a teacher. And, Rita O'Brien of Spokane will be leaving more than just her home when she heads for Evergreen. She'll be splitting away from her brother and sister, Rose and Charles, who will attend Spokane Community College. That's worth noting because Rita, Rose and Charles are triplets, born to Mr. and Mrs. Jack O'Brien in 1954. The triplets were graduated from Spokane's Ferris High School on June 4.

NEW ZIP CODES

In case you've forgotten, Evergreen has a new Zip Code number--98505--assigned by the Postal Service. College Mail Supervisor Jim Duncan says the new Zip number--exclusively assigned to Evergreen--will assure that improperly addressed mail will be delivered here, that in-state mail delivery time will be reduced and that delivery time for out-of-state mail will drop by nearly two days.

GOLF WINNERS

Library Assistant Kaye Utsunomiya is getting to be a pretty tough customer on a golf course. She won low net of the field honors in the June 10-11 Desert Oasis Women's Tournament in Moses Lake, with a two-under-par total of 144, including handicap. Her score was four strokes better than the runnerup among the tourney's 102 entries. As low net winner she received a new golf bag and wood covers. Another gal golfer, Claire Hess, secretary in the office of the deans, finished second in the fourth flight of the same tourney.

ABOUT PEOPLE

Executive Vice President E. J. Shoben, Jr. has been elected to a four-year term as a member of the Board of Directors of the American Association of University Administrators.

Vice President and Provost David Barry was a participant in a June 29 Institute For Teachers of Science, held at St. Martin's College under National Science Foundation Sponsorship. Barry delivered an address entitled, "Background for Contemporary Science."

Dean of Humanities and Arts Charles Teske has been elected to the Board of Trustees of the Olympia Community Concerts Association.

NEXT PUBLICATION

Because of vacation schedules and the press of other college business, the next issue of the Newsletter--perhaps in a revised format--will not appear until about mid-August. The normal schedule will be resumed in September.
