EVERGREEN MUSICAL SHOW TO TOUR RURAL COMMUNITIES

A three-member Evergreen faculty-staff team will hit the road this week, taking along a two-day presentation on "America's Music in Cultural Perspective." The team, headed by faculty members Dr. Tom Foote and Dr. Charles Teske and assisted by recent graduate Marilynn Carlton, is taking to nine rural southwest Washington communities a production that offers a slide/tape show illustrating aspects of America's rich musical heritage, lectures developed during the past academic year as part of the America's Music academic program, and discussion sessions designed to involve participants in identifying and appreciating that which is distinctly American music.

The program opens tomorrow in Morton and has been scheduled in Raymond, Quilcene, Shelton, Ilwaco, Ocean City, Packwood, Lake Quinault and Castle Rock.

At each stop, the Evergreen trio is taking participants through a four-step review of American history, literature and music, beginning with the introduction of white settlers to this continent, the influence of African traditions in the United States, and an examination of American classical or "high-art" music. The sessions conclude with discussions to examine the views held by persons from other nations and cultures of American musical traditions.

The summer-long program has been funded by the Washington Commission for the Humanities through a $8,891 grant designed in part to "provide an informative and exciting cultural experience for those who do not have the benefit of reasonable proximity to a four-year college or university."

TRUSTEES TABLE BUDGET, WOIS CONTRACT; APPROVE TUITION SCHEDULE

The Board of Trustees postponed final action on the 1981-82 operating budget, scheduled a hearing later this summer to consider raising campus parking fees, adopted the legislatively mandated tuition and fee schedule, and asked for additional information on a request by the Washington Occupational Information Services to become "an operational entity within TESC."

In a day-long meeting on campus Thursday, the board also elected new officers: Jane Sylvester of Seattle as chair, Herbert Gelman of Tacoma as vice chair, and Thelma Jackson of Lacey as secretary. Gelman and Jackson will also serve on the trustees' Finance Committee.

The big agenda item of the meeting was consideration of the $12,541,214 operating budget. After trustees Gelman and Wes Berglund of Aberdeen asked for more time to review the fiscal plan, the board voted to authorize college officials to expend money for "ordinary and necessary operating expenses," including the purchase of new computer equipment, "pending final adoption of the budget." Trustee Bob Flowers of Seattle, who had previously reviewed the plan with Budget Office Mike Bigelow, said he had "no real concerns" about the document, but was willing to postpone final action until all board members had additional study time.

A proposal to boost on-campus parking fees will be considered at a hearing later this summer probably in August. The proposal, which Vice President for Business Richard Schwartz said Thursday was necessary "to keep the parking operation in the black," will raise rates from 30 to 50 cents per day and from $30 to $40 annually.

In other action, trustees adopted a new tuition and fee schedule, which reflects the rates established by the 1981 legislature and increases full-time resident student costs by more than 40% (to $289 per quarter) this fall. Out-of-state students face an even bigger hike (to $970 per quarter) --- 47% above last year's charges. The per quarter hour rate also jumped --- from $21 to $29 for in-state undergraduates and $97 for out-of-staters.
S & A FEE JUMP APPROVED

As part of the tuition package, trustees also approved a hike in services and activities fees from $54 to $60 per quarter and created an emergency loan fund equal to 2.5% of the total tuition and fees. The loan funds will be administered by the Office of Financial Aid to help students meet emergency, short-term financial problems. Business Manager Ken Winkley told the board the need for that kind of financial help was urgent. Last year, he reported, more than 1600 short-term loans were granted for an average amount of $156. With higher tuition rates and fewer federal loan dollars, administrators predict an even greater demand next year.

As a result of other board action, faculty will be paid according to a new salary schedule, which Provost Byron Youtz explained, "funds merit pay increases separately from regular step increases." The Provost said the new schedule follows legislative recommendations and attempts by the Council for Postsecondary Education to create a uniform salary scale for all the four-year regional institutions. Youtz viewed the new scale as an interim one for the college and said he intends this fall to call together a disappearing task force to examine the scale more closely and "address long-term problems," including the effect of the scale on senior faculty salaries and the percentage of increases between steps. The current system, said Youtz, is "generous in the beginning and miserly toward the end" of the faculty salary scale. The new scale and legislatively approved salary increases, effective October 1, will result in a 7.2% cost-of-living raise for all faculty, plus an average 3.1% merit step increase.

A request from Washington Occupational Information Services was postponed after trustees decided they needed more information and a chance to talk with WOIS staff. The agency, which has been based on campus, provides a statewide system of occupational and career information to over 300 agencies including high schools, colleges and social service agencies. It has existed for the past seven years through sponsorship of seven state agencies and support from the federal government. That support and the interlocal agreement ends this summer and WOIS has asked Evergreen to assume financial responsibility for its operation and accept its staff as college employees. But WOIS wants to remain as an "integral and separate operating unit of the college," though its director would report to the Vice President for Business.

The agreement with WOIS, which requires it to be a self-supporting agency, is similar to that which governs Evergreen's relationship to the campus-based Washington State Commission for the Humanities. The distinction between the two agreements was not clear to trustees, who asked that WOIS Director Elton Chase be invited to attend the July meeting for further discussions.

WHITE REQUESTS APPEAL

In final discussions Thursday, trustees heard a report from State Assistant Attorney General Richard Montecucco on a request from Faculty Member Sid White. A dispute between White, campus arts exhibits coordinator, and two Evergreen women students was recently settled by an all-campus hearing board, which found "a preponderance of evidence" that sex discrimination had occurred in the hiring and payment of interns. The hearing panel voted to recommend award of back pay to students Margaret Murphy and Katherine Adair, and to have the report included in White's personnel file. White has appealed that decision.

At Montecucco's recommendation, trustees asked both sides of the dispute to submit additional information to them in writing by July 15. After that time, he told the board, members can review the case, remand it for another hearing, affirm the decision reached by the hearing board, or conduct their own hearing.

Trustees set their next meeting for Thursday, July 16.

LIPPMAN OFFERS BOYS' SOCCER CAMPS

Three soccer camps for boys from 9 to 13 years of age will be offered next month by Evergreen head coach Willie Lippman. Registration for the four-day sessions, to be conducted Tuesdays through Fridays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Evergreen's campus, must be completed this week.

The first session, which begins July 7, will focus on fundamental skills in individual ball handling, tactical drills, and teamwork among two to three players. The second camp, set for July 14-17, will emphasize advanced skill development, with team drills and goal keeping. The final session, July 21-24, will concentrate on fundamentals.
Registration for the soccer camps cost $45 and is limited to 40 boys, each of whom will receive a T-shirt, free afternoon use of the college swimming pool and refreshments. Sign-up forms are available in four Thurston County locations: The Lacey 7-11 Store on College Way; Bigelow Office Supply in downtown Olympia, Tumwater Sports Center on Capitol Boulevard, and Rainbow Sports in West Olympia. Complete information is available by calling the Recreation Center weekdays at 866-6530.

60 LEISURE WORKSHOPS BEGIN

Registration for more than 60 Leisure Education workshops continues through July 6 at Evergreen. The sessions, which are designed to enrich leisure time for Evergreeners and community residents alike, began this week and most continue for six weeks. Daytime registration may be conducted weekdays from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. in the College Recreation Center; evening registration is offered from 4:30 to 7:30 o'clock through July 1. All registration must be completed in person before 4:30 p.m. July 6.

Highlighting this summer's workshop slate are new sessions in aquanastics (including infant swimming, whitewater rafting and beginning diving), wilderness backpacking and mountain climbing (offering opportunities to scale 23 high alpine peaks in the Pacific Northwest), dancing and movement, arts and martial arts.

Complete details are available through Evergreen's Recreation Center, 866-6530 weekdays.

BRIDGES SCHOLARSHIPS MADE AVAILABLE

Scholarships have been made available for up to ten teenage students interested in spending two weeks this summer gaining a better understanding of their natural environment by living in the wilderness as a member of Evergreen's Bridges Program. The ten $125 scholarships, granted by Simpson-Reed Timber Company, cover half the cost of the 14-day program designed to provide teenagers a chance to learn the basic concepts of environmental studies and develop an understanding of group processes by living and studying with a 12-member student team on campus and in the Olympic National Park.

Students from 13 to 18 years of age will work under the supervision of four Evergreen student teachers, studying the environment, developing skills in canoeing, back packing and hiking, and "learning how to live and work well with others," according to Bridges student coordinator Barrett Burr.

Teenagers may select from among three two-week programs scheduled July 7-20, July 25-August 7, and August 15-28. Registration fees cover the cost of housing, food, transportation, equipment, insurance and staff support for the wilderness experience, which is coordinated this year by Rita Pougiales, an Evergreen faculty member in outdoor education, and Dr. Jim Stroh, faculty geologist.

MORGEN WINS HAAS GRANT

Mara Morgen, a Tacoma senior at Evergreen, has been selected to receive the second annual Haas Foundation Award of Merit for the 1981-82 academic year. Morgen, a Wilson High School graduate and transfer student to Evergreen from Tacoma Community College, has served as a reporter and editorial and opinion page editor for the TCC campus newspaper, as an assistant for the school's public relations department, and as a moderator for a regular public service program on radio station KTAC.

A single mother of two, Ms. Morgen has continued to work part-time for a Pierce County engineering firm and contributed volunteer service to the Tacoma Crisis Clinic and the Geiger Elementary School parent-teacher organization.

The Haas Foundation seeks to encourage "the highest standards of public service in radio and television broadcasting" by granting merit awards of $1500 to Washington State students in communications. Selection is based on academic achievement, proven ability to contribute to "the betterment of the field of communications," and "excellence in the quality and character of the recipient."
MILLER'S DOCUMENTARY TO AIR OVER KCTS TV

"Saltwater People," a 30-minute documentary on reef net fishing produced by Evergreen graduate Scott Miller, will be shown next month twice over KCTS television. The documentary, which took Miller more than two years to complete, will be aired on Thursday, July 23 at 11:30 p.m., and again Monday, July 27 at 2:30 p.m. over the educational television station, Channel Nine.

Selected as one of ten finalists in the American Film Festival competition in New York this month, the film focuses on the prehistoric form of salmon fishing practiced by Native Americans, and, says Miller, "on how people within a culture react to technological change." Filmed on and around Lummi Island in northwest Washington, the film was produced with financial support from the National Endowment for the Humanities, the Washington Commission for the Humanities, and the Evergreen Foundation.

NOLE BEGINS JOB AS BOOKSTORE MANAGER

Laura Noles, former bookstore director at Edmonds Community College, has this week begun her new job as head of bookstore operations at Evergreen, according to Vice President for Business Richard Schwartz.

Noles, 34, began working in bookstores at the age of 16. She first worked in higher education while attending Ohio State University, then was employed at the University of Puget Sound Law School for two years while she completed her bachelor's degree in English and business from the University of Washington. After graduation, she accepted the post of assistant manager for Fort Steilacoom CC Bookstore, then served as manager of the campus bookstore at Edmonds CC for a year before becoming its director in 1979.

EVERGREENERS IN THE NEWS

Graphics designer Mark Clemens and his wife, Karen, are the proud parents of newly arrived Malorie Lang, their first child, born Monday, June 8, and adopted almost immediately thereafter.

Security Chief MacDonald Smith is scheduled this week to continue discussions on his assignment with Vice President for Business Richard Schwartz. Last month Smith handed in his resignation, which Schwartz refused to accept. The two hope Smith may return to work during early July if negotiations can be successfully completed.

NEW WORKSHOP ANNOUNCED

A five-week workshop for advanced beginning swimming will be offered through the American Red Cross at Evergreen on Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning July 7. The new workshop, which offers two sessions at $20 each, will be taught from 10-10:45 a.m. and from 11-11:45 a.m. Details are available at 866-6530.
Editor's Note: Several items have crossed my desk regarding transportation that I want to share with the rest of the college community. I'll put out another Newsletter whenever there is enough information to make the cost worthwhile.

MOTOR POOL KEY CHECK-OUT
Plans to move the Motor Pool up to the central campus are progressing. Effective July 1, 1981, keys will be checked out through the Facilities Office. You will still need to find a way to the garage to pick up the vehicles until we can relocate them.

You may check out vehicle keys any time between 6:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m. Scheduling of vehicles will still be done between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. (4:30 summer hours). For scheduling information, please call #6352.

NEW MOTOR POOL RATES
The new motor pool rates become effective July 1, 1981, reflecting a substantial increase. If you need a copy of the new schedule, call #6120.

VAN POOLING
Two van pools will be starting this summer. One van is here, is being painted, and should be ready for service sometime in July. There are still seats available on each run. "A" run will be Yelm Highway; "B" run is Tanglewilde Shopping Center down Martin Way. If you're not signed up, but are interested in either run, call #6120.

CAR POOLING
Several car pools are currently operating for employees and students, but there could be more. If you don't have all the information and would like to find out more about car pooling, call #6120.

COMMUTERS
A substantial number of Evergreen employees commute long distances—8 from Seattle, 15 from Shelton, and 19 from Tacoma. If you are one of these and are interested in ideas on how to economize on travel costs, call #6120.

HANDICAPPED VAN SERVICE
The College has converted the old blue van into a handicapped vehicle with a hydraulic wheelchair lift. How, why, and under what conditions this vehicle will be used has not yet been determined. If you have suggestions or comments, call #6120.

COMMERCIAL TRANSPORTATION
Information is available on commercial transportation, such as Capital Aeroporter and Greyhound Bus schedules. If you are interested in either of these, call #6120.

ENERGY TAX CREDIT LEGISLATION
There is legislation pending in Congress to provide extensive financial ridesharing incentives for employers and individuals. This would provide a 15% energy tax credit for individuals who purchase a van for van pooling.
