Welcome to the first edition of the monthly NEWSLETTER which will come out the last Friday of each month. The next NEWSLETTER will be published on April 29, therefore the deadline for articles is the previous Friday, April 22. Daily events for this coming week are, as always, listed in HAPPENINGS.

Several SCHOLARSHIPS FOR EVERGREEN STUDENTS are currently available for the 1983-84 academic year from the Office of Financial Aid. If you're interested and think you qualify, contact them at ext. 6205. The deadline for most applications is April 15.

Qualifications include minority status, Washington State residency, financial need and demonstrated academic potential.

The Ward Bowden Memorial Scholarship in the amount of $400 is offered to full time undergraduate students with an interest in journalism or political science.

The Charles J. McCann Merit Scholarship for $360 will be awarded to a fulltime senior who must have completed one full year at Evergreen. Preference will be given to those demonstrating financial need.

The Edith K. Draham Scholarship in the amount of $1000 is available to writers who are new or continuing Evergreen students and is based on financial need and demonstrated ability in fiction writing.

The Ethel MacPhail Scholarship will be awarded to a junior or senior woman student who has a strong academic background, is concentrating in a business management related field and has a demonstrated financial need. The amount is $1000.

Student supporters of WashPIRG, the Washington Public Interest Research Group, packed the March 10 BOARD OF TRUSTEES meeting to hear the Trustees make their deliberations on the proposal to create a WashPIRG chapter at Evergreen. The Trustees had a "fundamental approval of the chapter," as voiced by Chairman Herb Gelman, but problems with the operating mechanism of the student organization.

President Dan Evans commented that he couldn't "think of anyone in the administration who is not enthusiastic about WashPIRG," although he did advocate the use of a positive check-off system during quarterly registration for students to indicate their willingness to pay WashPIRG a fee of $2.50.

Evergreen student representatives Devra Beldock and Annette Newman, and Wash PIRG Executive Director Kim Nelson from Seattle spoke on behalf of the organization. They pointed out that automatic fees, which would be refundable on demand, would be the easiest to administer and would make WashPIRG accountable to the student body, as would two-year referendums held by the chapter which would give students the opportunity to vote on whether WashPIRG should continue at Evergreen.

With a comment from Gelman that he hadn't "seen this many students at a Trustees' meeting since I've sat on the Board," the Trustees voted 5-0 to approve a WashPIRG chapter at Evergreen in concept, but withheld final approval of the contract until questions about the referendums and refundable fees were clarified.

In other action, the Trustees approved a summer tuition rate of $314 for resident and non-resident students; approved an extension of President Evans' contract (see story below); and approved a provision for three-year faculty appointments beyond the age of 70. The Board followed this action by making Andrew Hanfman, who will turn 70 on May 10, the first official Senior Member of the Faculty. The meeting concluded with the presentation by Galleries Director Sid White and Director of Resource Development Pat Matheny-White of a stunning slide-tape documentary about Chicano artist Alfredo Arreguin as an example of the work done for the grant project on Chicano Cultural Expression in the Pacific Northwest.

EVERGREEN PRESIDENT DAN EVANS will stay on in his present capacity until at least June 15, 1984. The college's Board of Trustees renewed President Evans' contract at their March meeting. The contract can be terminated with a six-month notification by either party. It was also announced that President Evans will take a three-month sabbatical this summer.

Evergreen faculty member DR. GUY ADAMS was recently elected to chair the Thurston-Mason Mental Health/Drug Abuse Board. In that capacity, he will oversee the Board's activities as it functions in an advisory capacity to the Thurston County Commissioners on subjects in the field. The Board works closely with several community organizations including the Community Mental Health Center and the Crisis Clinic. Adams has been a member of the Board for a year.

The S&H LECTURE SERIES will bring four nationally recognized speakers to campus in April and May to talk about different aspects of "Religion and Public Policy in American Culture." Sponsored by the S&H Foundation of the Sperry Hutchinson Company, all lectures are free and open to the public and will be held on Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. in the Recital Hall.

The series begins on April 5 with a lecture on "Religion and Politics in America" by Professor Robert N. Bellah from the University of California at Berkeley.

The second speaker will be Professor Alphonso Ortiz from the University of New Mexico on April 26. He will speak on Native American religious traditions and their relevance to the modern world.

On May 3, Professor Helen Redbird from Western Oregon State College will discuss what helped the first Americans face the long walk from Siberia to North America and what helps modern American Indians face their walk through corridors of another kind.

The final lecture, on May 17, will feature University of Wisconsin Professor Ronald L. Numbers, who will address the subject of "Creationism in America."

Parents and alumni pledged a record $19,002 during the Evergreen Foundation's recently completed annual PHONE-A-THON. During ten nights of phoning, more than 100 dedicated students, faculty, staff, alumni and Foundation volunteers managed to overtake last year's total of $17,730, according to Phone-A-Thon coordinator Ellie Dornan. "I expected our volunteers to have really tough sledding this year because of the economy," Ellie said, "but in true Evergreen fashion they just shifted into high gear and rolled right along."

The overall goal set for the 1983 Phone-A-Thon was $25,000, and Ellie expressed confidence in reaching that goal. "When we've heard from all those folks who agreed to consider making a pledge, past experience indicates we'll slide in right on target," she said.

REGISTRATION FOR ACADEMIC evening and part time courses and LEISURE EDUCATION workshops continues next week. Academic course registration runs from March 28 to April 1 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. by appointment at the Registrar's Office and from March 28-31 from 5:30 to 7 p.m. on a walk in basis.

Leisure Ed registration can be made daily through April 8 at CRC 302. Evening registrations is set for April 4-7 from 5 to 8 p.m.

Nominations are now being sought for the OUTSTANDING SENIOR who will be presented with an award during graduation ceremonies. Presented by the Alumni Board of Directors, the award will be based on the senior student demonstrating a well-rounded Evergreen experience including participation in academics, governance, decision-making and volunteer work. Nominations should be made by calling Lynn Garner in CAB 305, ext. 6220 by April 15.

It will be a dual editorship for the COOPER POINT JOURNAL this quarter as two people have been hired to act as co-editors. Duane Heier and Eric Brinker have been selected by the Communications Board to run the paper during Spring Quarter.

Both bring unique qualifications to the position, according to Board Chairman Dave Ammons. Eric has worked at both the CPJ and KAOS in various capacities and appointment as editor seems the next logical step. Duane has extensive experience in business and sales, including work at Shelton's KMAS Radio. They expect to work closely with all campus groups to bring a greater coverage of all college activities. In addition, they expect to improve relations with local businesses to gain additional revenue for the paper. "We had a number of very well-qualified individuals apply for the position," Ammons said. "The decision was difficult, but I believe Duane and Eric are the best choices at this time."

Evergreen received a VISITOR FROM AUSTRALIA in late March. Rob Osbourne, Director of Admissions at Murdoch University in Perth, Australia, came through Olympia on a Traveling Fulbright Fellowship to see how student recruitment was done in the Northwest. Osbourne, who was traveling by car with his wife and two sons, had already stopped at several universities in California and planned to visit almost a dozen more in Canada and the U.S. before the end of his four-month junket. His visit with staff members at Evergreen uncovered several similarities between our college and Murdoch. Like Evergreen, Murdoch is a young college, having opened its doors only seven years ago, has an enrollment of 3500 students, must compete with larger universities within its own state, and has had to battle rumors of closure. Unlike Evergreen, Murdoch's enrollment consists almost entirely of students from the city of Perth, which contains over 90 percent of the entire population of Western Australia. Osbourne said it is unheard of for students in Australia to go to college in a different state. And yes, it's a small world: although Murdoch University is not named for international publishing magnate Rupert Murdoch, it is named for his great uncle, Sir Walter.

Four Evergreen faculty members played a large role in making the 56th Annual Meeting of the NORTHWEST SCIENTIFIC ASSOCIATION a success when 200 members of that organization met on the Evergreen campus this week. The three-day session saw the presentation of 200 papers on such topics as forestry, zoology, soil and water, botany, scientific education and geology.

President of the Association this year is Evergreen Academic Dean Dr. John Perkins. Helping to coordinate the meeting was faculty geologist Dr. Al Wiedemann. Two major participants were faculty computer scientist Dr. John Aikin who presented a workshop to the scientists on how to choose a personal computer for research work and faculty ornithologist Dr. Steve Herman, who took interested participants on a field trip to Grays Harbor for a look at shorebird migrations.

Former Secretary of the Interior and Arizona Congressman Stuart Udall will be the guest speaker when the third annual PRESIDENT'S SYMPOSIUM is held on the Evergreen campus, Wednesday and Thursday, April 13-14.

Udall, who currently works as an attorney for environmental causes, will have dinner with members of the President's Club on April 13, then present a free public lecture at 8 p.m. in the Recital Hall entitled "Requiem for the Atomic Age." On Thursday, April 14, he will have breakfast with college and community leaders, then meet in a seminar with Evergreen students.

Previous participants in the President's Symposium have been Washington columnist David Broder and Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker.

Evergreen faculty members Dr. VIRGINIA INGERSOLL and Dr. GUY ADAMS presented a paper entitled "Managerial Metamyths: Bridges to Organizational Boundary Crossing" during a conference on "Myths, Symbols and Folklore: Expanding the Analysis of Organizations" held recently in Los Angeles. The conference, sponsored by the Center for the Study of Comparative Folklore and Mythology and the Graduate School of Management at the University of California - Los Angeles, selected 25 papers from more than 60 proposals submitted.

Copies of the U.S. Army Corp of Engineers' final Environmental Impact Statement about a PROPOSED MARINA IN SEQUIM BAY are available at the Evans Library. The Port of Port Angeles proposes to dredge, fill and construct a marina on the west shore of Sequim Bay.

Olympia physician Dr. Stu Pritchard will discuss the subject, "When Government Gains, Freedom Loses," in the first of four Spring Quarter PIECE OF MY MIND lectures on Wednesday, April 6 at the First United Methodist Church on Legion Way in Olympia. While disliking labels, Dr. Pritchard bills himself as a present day conservative and a 19th century liberal. A frequent spokesman for conservative political and economic views, Pritchard is a graduate of Purdue and the Northwestern Medical School. In his local practice, he specializes in preventive aspects of heart disease.

The Piece of My Mind lecture begins at noon. Participants are encouraged to bring a brown bag lunch; the church will provide the beverages.

The SECOND ANNUAL GEODUCK SWIM AND RUN, Evergreen's biggest aquatics and athletics fundraising event, will be held on Saturday, April 9. Participants get pledges for the number of laps they plan to swim or the number of miles they plan to run. In exchange, participants receive gift certificates from Rainbow Sports for an amount equal to 20 percent for what they raise. Last year, participants brought in $2700. For more information, call ext. 6533.

Coach ALICE PARSONS and the men's and women's tennis teams have begun their third season of competition with hopes of representing Evergreen in district playoffs this May. "We've been practicing indoors since the beginning of February, and not having to contend with inclement weather has greatly contributed to successful pre-season workouts," says Coach Parsons.

The men's season started Friday, March 11, with a trip to Centralia and a victory for the Evergreen team, 8-1. The singles matches were won by Ben Chotzen (7-5, 6-0), Pete Moser (6-3, 6-2), Robert Enriquez (6-2, 6-0), Rocke Klockner (6-1, 6-2) and Geoff Culbert (6-0, 6-1). All three doubles teams won with Ben and Rocke (7-6, 7-5), Robert and Pete (6-1, 7-5) plus Rex Fletcher and Geoff (6-4, 6-0). The next match for the men will be here on Wednesday, March 30, at 2 p.m. against the Centralia team.

The Geoduck women met with a formidable conference opponent, Seattle Pacific, on Saturday, March 12, losing 0-9. Kim Burt, number one singles player for the women, had a good pro-set match of 5-8 with SPU's Sue Mitten. The remaining matches were played by Lisa Levy, D'Lynn Tarver, Megan Madden, Suzanne Egan and Brita McGregor. The women see action again on Wednesday, March 30 when they travel to Centralia for a 2 p.m. match and on Friday, April 3 at 2 p.m. in a home match against Centralia.

In the meantime, Swim Coach Robbie Johnson is on the recruiting trail both locally and out-of-state. Coach Johnson is looking at local swimmers, but is not forgetting those in Oregon and Northern California. The Geoduck swimmers just completed their second straight trip to the NAIA nationals where Austin St.

John clocked a season-best 22.04 in the 50-meter freestyle and a lifetime best of 48.9 in the 100-meter freestyle. Evetree Tallman had a 1:00.23 in the 100, while Marybeth Berney had a 1:10.8.

SINGER/SONGWRITER FRED SMALL will present a benefit concert for medical aid for El Salvador on Tuesday, March 29 at 8 p.m. in the Library lobby. Tickets are $3.50, $2.50 for a hardship discount, or contributor tickets for $10. Small, a lawyer turned folksinger, has developed a following on college campuses for his topical songs on peace, environment, energy, labor, sexism, racism, democracy, social change and thermal underwear. His musical style has been described as humorous, uplifting and joyous.

Tickets are available at Rainy Day Records, Smithfield Cafe or at the door. The concert is sponsored by EPIC and Olympians Against Intervention in El Salvador. For more information, call ext. 6144.

NAT ADDERLEY, one of the pioneers of jazz as we now know it, brings his new Nat Adderley Quintet to campus on Thursday, April 7 at 8 p.m. in the Library lobby. Tickets are $5 students and seniors and $6 general and are available at Crackers, Rainy Day Records and Evergreen's Bookstore. Having played with the likes of Miles Davis, Dizzy Gillespie, and Clark Terry, Adderley formed a group with his late brother, Cannonball, called the Cannonball Adderley Quintet featuring Nat Adderley. That famous group lasted 15 years.

Now leading his own Quintet, Adderley is backed by the great Sonny Fortune on alto sax, Walter Brooker on bass, Larry Willis on piano and Jimmy Cobb on drums. A special feature of the evening will be a no-host wine bar and happy hour from 7-8 p.m.

The Evergreen State College OPEN CHESS TOURNAMENT will be held Saturday and Sunday, April 2 and 3, in CAB 104. Some $500 in prize money will be awarded to first and second place winners in four categories. Cost is $2.50, plus membership in the Northwest Chess Federation. For more information, call Joel Barnes at ext. 6220.

The ALUMNI BOOK DISCUSSION GROUP will meet on Thursday, April 21 at 7 p.m. in Library 3121 to discuss the book "Capitalism, The Family and Personal Life" by Eli Zaretsky. Copies of the book, which should be read prior to the meeting, are available at The Fireside Bookstore or the Evergreen Bookstore. For more information, call ext. 6363.

GARY RUSSELL, director of Security, has issued a reminder that accident/injury forms should be routed to Bob Barnard in the Facilities Office and Verna Baker in the Business Office. Russell said that Security will still respond to any serious accident by calling ext. 6140.
