Table of Contents

At the beginning of each section will appear an Introduction followed by the Sources of Information with proper description and the order of presentation. Transcriptions are included of some materials for more accurate reading and this indication will be stated in the Sources of Information and the transcription will follow the document. I will use the spelling of the family name as McLane, since it is the established spelling in the Olympia area. Other spellings may be found in some of the materials. Certain privacy policies will be followed and will be especially referred to in the Genealogy section. Special indication will be made of items of greater importance by underlining, use of an arrow, or an asterisk. The pages have been hand numbered since materials came from various sources.

At times, I will add personal touches as I have visited and traveled many of the same trails and byways as my great grandfather, William McLane.

The materials are divided into the following sections:

Preface Pages of Information	Pages
General Introduction	1 - 7
Scotland	8 - 17
Pennsylvania	18 - 23
Western Migration – Oregon Trail	24 - 46
Land Claim	47 - 73
Political Life	74 - 95
Legal Matters	96 - 108
Family Genealogy	109 - 157
McLane Cemetery	158 - 175
Obituaries & Burials	176 - 196

The William McLane Collection Donation
(William McLane-Early Thurston County Pioneer)

It is the intention that the William McLane Collection be accessible and welcoming to interested persons for research and study.

1. A copy of the William McLane Collection shall be housed in the Evergreen State Library - Archives and Special Collections. The William McLane Collection will be open for reference, research and study within the Archives room, but not for general public circulation.
2. Reproductions of the material content may be made following the policies and procedures of the Archives and Special Collections, and/or at the discretion of the Library Archivist.
3. No portion of the entire collection is to be for sale or profit.
4. The copyright is retained by the donor, and any items within the Collection which are not retained by Archives and Special Collections shall be returned to the donor.

The hope is that interested persons will find the William McLane Collection interesting and informative. Further, that the study of these materials will add to the knowledge of this early Thurston County pioneer, his descendants and the general history of the area and state.
