

“Feasibility Study of a Tribal Managers Association,” Avreayl Jacobson, Pamela Peters, and Lina Perez Taitingfong – The Evergreen State College Master of Public Administration Program, Tribal Governance concentration has given the authors an opportunity to explore forming an organization of tribal managers, especially including those who have taken advantage of the Tribal Governance program. Tribal administrators would benefit from sharing common concerns and discussing issues of concern among tribal management. Networking with others who work in tribal government would also offer access to “employment opportunities, personal support, and problem solving assistance.”
