1979 Fall Quarter Part-time Studies

EVENING NEWS DESIGNED FOR THURSTON COUNTY READERS

Welcome to the first edition of Evergreen Evening News, a quarterly publication designed to keep you posted on academic programs available at Evergreen and to bring you up to date on other college events — from the new performing arts series called "Evergreen Expressions," to the formation of our first intercollegiate Geoducks teams, from the increase in services available for evening students to a variety of new course offerings tailored especially to meet the expressed needs of Thurston County residents.

In the following 12 pages, you'll find a complete list of Fall Quarter part-time courses, news of changes at the college, and calendars detailing registration activities for Fall Quarter, entertainment for the entire 1979-80 academic year, and other items of special interest.

We hope you'll find this first issue a welcome addition to your regular reading on what's happening at your local state college.

REGISTRATION ACTIVITIES LAUNCH NEW YEAR

The 1979-80 academic year at Evergreen gets underway with Orientation Week activities beginning September 22, when new and returning students have an opportunity to gain up to date information on academic programs, to finalize registration, participate in a variety of on-campus social events, and in general, get prepared for a busy, challenging and rewarding school year.

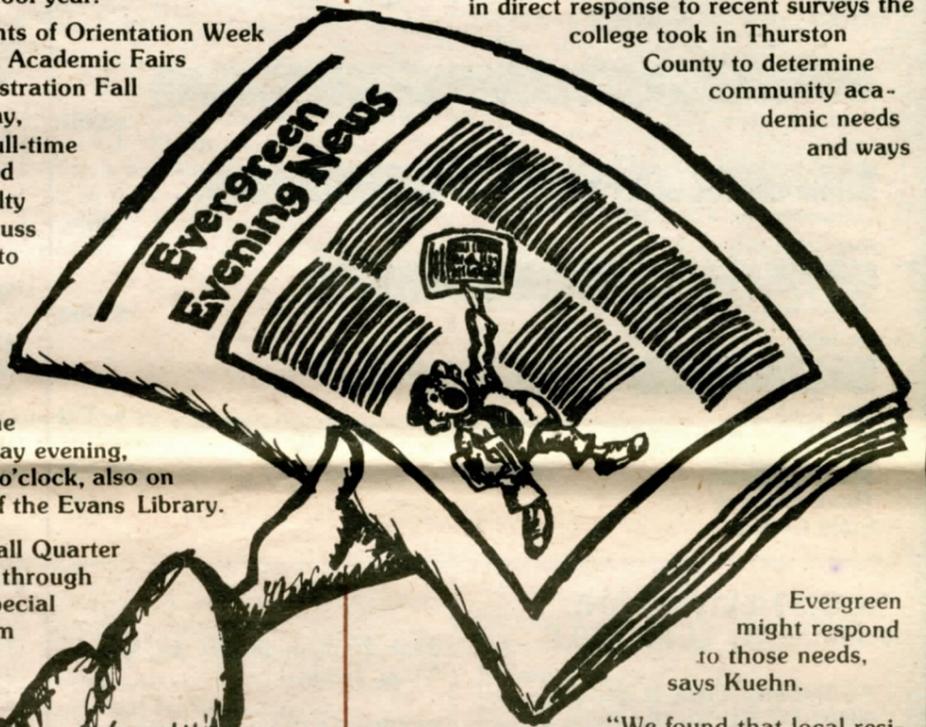

Academic highlights of Orientation Week are the traditional Academic Fairs which reopen registration Fall Quarter on Tuesday, September 25. Full-time students are invited to meet their faculty members and discuss programs from 1 to 4 p.m. on the second floor Library Lobby; part-time and evening students will enjoy the same opportunity Tuesday evening, from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock, also on the second floor of the Evans Library.

Registration for Fall Quarter classes continues through October 5, with special evening hours from 5 to 7 o'clock

FALL QUARTER CLASSES RESPOND TO LOCAL NEEDS, OFFER EVENING STUDIES

More than half of the 90 courses offered to part-time students at Evergreen this Fall Quarter are scheduled during late afternoon and evening hours for the convenience of students in Thurston County, according to Dr. Lowell Kuehn, special assistant to the president.

The courses — and their timing — are offered in direct response to recent surveys the college took in Thurston County to determine community academic needs and ways

Evergreen might respond to those needs, says Kuehn.

"We found that local residents were keenly interested in enrolling at Evergreen, and we sought to systematically construct our part-time studies program to respond to their expressed academic interests," he says.

Beginning October 1, Evergreen will offer 17 more part-time courses than ever before, with more than 40 of them taught after 5 p.m.," he says. Classes are also scheduled to begin as early as 7:30 a.m., at various times during the day, and as late as 8 p.m.

SPECIAL offerings found in this fall's course lists are: "The Writing Process: a Course for Teachers," by Faculty Member Dr. Peter Elbow; "Evolution of Sociability," taught by visiting professor Dr. Sally Mendoza, who will explore the most controversial developments in primate/human history; "Human Health and Behavior," by Faculty Member Dr. Diana Cushing, who will lead an examination of these topics emphasizing the period from conception to puberty; and "Approaches to Psychotherapy and Counseling," offered by Adjunct Faculty Member Cynthia Herman to examine systems theory and family therapy. TIMELY topics featured in fall's schedule include: "Political Economy of Energy," and "The Political Economy of Nursing Homes," both taught by economist Dr. Chuck Miller, an adjunct faculty member. Other courses of keen interest at this time include: "Technology and Social Change," taught by Dr. Kuehn and emphasizing the "extraordinary, complex controversies involving science, technology and society."

EXPANDED SERVICES GREET PART-TIMERS

A new office for evening students will open Fall Quarter on the second floor mall of the College Activities Building, according to Larry Stenberg, dean of Student and Enrollment Services.

Slated to be open from 6 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday beginning September 25, the new office will provide special service to part-time students who may need additional information on classes, on campus publications, college services, and other data pertinent to their social and academic lives at Evergreen.

In addition to the new office, which will be staffed by both student and professional employees, the college has negotiated expanded bus service for the convenience of part-time students, has announced building hours for the Library and College Activities buildings, and has arranged to provide increased and more visible campus security. For complete details, see stories below.

More Bus Service

Thanks to an agreement between Evergreen and Intercity Transit (ITT), persons will have an easier time getting to and from the campus this fall.

Activities Coordinator Lynn Garner says more bus runs -- both earlier and later than before -- will be offered Fall Quarter, with service beginning from downtown Olympia to Evergreen at 7:45 a.m. and concluding at 11:30 p.m. seven days a week.

Special midnight runs will be offered from campus on Friday and Saturday evenings, arriving downtown at 12:30 a.m., and earlier service will also be offered on Saturday and Sunday mornings, with service set to begin at 9:45 from campus.

Despite the expanded service,

Garner says costs remain the same -- 25 cents each way for all passengers. Plans are also in the mill for providing monthly passes for Evergreen students. Those passes, if successfully negotiated, will be available from ITT or the Evergreen Activities Office by October 1.

Security On View

The men and women in blue will be in full view this year as Evergreen's security officers don new uniforms and add more staff during late afternoon and evening hours.

Security director McDonald Smith says his team will staff two vehicles in campus parking lots during afternoon and evening hours to offer assistance to visitors and students alike. In addition, security staffers will be on campus 24 hours a day -- and will be readily identifiable by their blue blazers.

Persons with any questions or concerns about campus security are invited to talk to Smith, 866-6140.

Building Hours Posted

The college library, a favorite spot for dedicated students, will be open Fall Quarter from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., Friday, 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday, and 1 to 9 p.m. Sunday.

The other most frequently visited spot on campus, the College Activities Building, will be open until 2 a.m. seven days a week so students can always find at least a hot cup of coffee. Watch for more details on expanded food and beverage service in the CAB's new Sidewalk Cafe, expected to open on the second floor mall by October 1. The Cafe will offer evening students an ideal spot to get acquainted and find out more about the campus in a homey, comfortable atmosphere.

COSTS OUTLINED

Fall Quarter tuition and fees for Washington residents will be:

10-16 credit hours	$206
8 credit hours	$168
4 credit hours	$84

Tuition may be paid when you register on campus or tuition checks may be mailed to the Cashier, Library 1112, The Evergreen State College, Olympia, Washington 98505. Make checks payable to The Evergreen State College and be sure to include your tuition bill with your check. Tuition must be paid or checks postmarked by October 5, to avoid late payment charges.

TUITION DUE OCT. 5

Tuition and fee payments are due the fifth class day of each quarter during the 1979-80 academic year.

Registrar Walker Allen says final payments for Fall Quarter are due October 5; it's January 11 for Winter Quarter and April 4 for Spring. Payments received after the fifth class day will be assessed a $15 late fee.

Allen reminds students that if tuition and fee payments are not received by the 30th calendar day of each quarter, students will be disenrolled and will be recharged one-half the original tuition.

Students may withdraw from Evergreen during the first five days and receive a full refund of tuition and fees. Students who withdraw from the sixth to the 30th calendar day will be charged one-half the original tuition. Students who withdraw after the 30th calendar day will receive no refund.

Late fees will also be assessed to students who are behind in rent payments to college housing. Monthly payment arrangements for campus housing can be made in the Housing Office (Residence Hall A, room 322). But, Charges not paid within 30 days of the due date specified in student contracts will be assessed a late fee of one percent per month on the unpaid balance.

EVERGREEN EXPRESSIONS SERIES TO DEBUT IN FALL

A year of experiences in music, theater and dance begins in November, as Evergreen Expressions, TESC's performing arts series, opens its 1979-80 season.

A total of nine performances are scheduled, ranging from jazz guitarist Herb Ellis to poetic dance images.

Richard Nesbitt, Communications Building Manager, says the performances will be available through a new purchasing plan, which allows students to buy 7 performances and get all 9, or buy 5 and get 6 performances, for $16 and $12, respectively.

"It's really a great saving," Nesbitt enthused, "and for the quality of talent and breadth of performing arts we are offering, it's the best deal in town."

Scheduled performers include: November 3, Herb Ellis Trio; November 17, Best of Black Arts/West; December 1, Odetta; December 8, Bob Williams Puppet Theatre; January 19, Stones. . . A Visual Meditation; March 1, Yueh Lung Shadow Theatre; Feb. 28, 29, March 1, 2, 6, 7, 8, 9, Man of La Mancha; April 12, Cirque (formerly Portland Dance Theatre); and, May 1-4, Images in Motion.

Individual ticket sales range from $3 to $1.50 for students.

For complete information regarding the Evergreen Expressions series, call the Office of College Relations, 866-6128.

LEISURE WORKSHOPS OFFERED

Seventy-five Leisure Education workshops -- ranging from martial arts to modern dance and from racquetball to woodworking -- will be offered to Thurston County residents Fall Quarter at Evergreen.

Offered purely for enjoyment, not academic credit, the workshops begin the week of October 8 and continue for approximately eight weeks. Enrollment fees range from free for the KAOS Community Radio session to $60 for sport parachuting.

Registration for the workshops begins September 17 at the Evergreen Recreation Office. On September 25, prospective workshop participants are invited to meet leisure education instructors and see demonstrations of their work at an orientation session from 6 to 10 p.m. on the fourth floor of the Evergreen Library.

Complete details and a brochure describing costs and meeting times are available from the Office of Recreation, 866-6530, weekdays between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

MASTER'S DEGREE PLANNING UNDERWAY

Sixteen prominent citizens, including two state legislators, a Supreme Court Justice, county and city officials, and several state agency directors, have accepted appointment to a Public Administrator Advisory Committee to offer advice in planning a master's degree program at Evergreen.

Dr. Guy Adams, faculty member and coordinator of efforts to create Evergreen's first graduate program, says 11 Olympians have already met with five other committee members to review the history of the master's degree program and the initial draft of the new offering, set to open in Fall, 1980.

Olympians serving on the Public Administration Advisory Committee include: Leonard Nord, director of the Department of Personnel; Supreme Court Justice James Dolliver; Robert Benson, deputy director of the Office of Financial Management; William Jacobs, Olympia City Commissioner; Sam Reed, Thurston County Auditor; Jim Bricker, director of State Senate Research; Merritt Long, director of administrative services for the Department of Social and Health Services; Brick Kane, director of personnel for the Department of Social and Health Services; Louise Morrison, executive director of Timberland Regional Library; and Lou Stewart, education director for the Washington State Labor Council.

Karen Fraser, mayor of Lacey, has also agreed to serve on the new committee, along with State Representative Hal Zimmerman of Camas; State Senator A.N. "Bud" Shinpoch of Renton; Morton Kroll, professor in the Graduate School of Public Affairs at the University of Washington; and Bernard Kelly, regional director of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Seattle.

The committee will convene at Evergreen again in September to review a final draft of the public administration master's degree program.

ALUMNS RETURNING SEPT. 28 - 29

When new and returning students arrive on campus the end of September, they'll find a whole raft of "old" students joining them.

Members of the Evergreen Alumni Association, which boasts more than 3,000 graduates among its potential membership, plan a two-day meeting and "fun time" on campus September 28 and 29, coinciding with the kick-off of the college's ninth academic year.

Alumni President Chris Meserve says former students will begin gathering on campus Friday evening for a reception/cocktail hour. They'll get to work first thing Saturday morning for a business meeting to elect new officers and plan the year's activities.

But the two-day session won't be all work, says Meserve. Supplementing the business and "getting reacquainted" sessions will be sports events, a variety of "fun games," plus arts and crafts sales and demonstrations by alums and students.

The September Alumni gathering will conclude with a buffet dinner and/or potluck, followed by an all-campus dance.

Persons interested in participating in any of the alumni sessions — from the crafts booths to the business meeting — are invited to contact Susan Washburn, development director, Library 3109, 866-6565.

DEDICATION OF ORGANIC FARMHOUSE SEPT. 27

Ceremonies celebrating the near completion of the college's Organic Farmhouse will be held Thursday, September 27, beginning at 3 p.m. at the new structure.

Originally conceived by students and faculty in 1974, the 2450-square foot Organic Farmhouse began as an "idyllic dream" — a place where Evergreeners interested in working on the gardens and in other agricultural projects could gather for seminars, for laboratory projects and for social meetings.

During the past five years more than 50 students have earned academic credit working at the Farmhouse, helping with its design and construction.

By the time students return to campus for Orientation Week, the farmhouse should be nearly completed. And the hard-working construction crews and all others who've contributed their time, talent and energy toward the project will be ready to celebrate.

Plan to join them at the farm September 27.

ADULT LIFE CHANGES

Course [2 quarter hours]
Dr. Peter Elbow, Member of the Faculty (Literature), 866-6157; and Dr. Margaret Gribskov, Member of the Faculty (Journalism and Education), 866-6763. Monday and Thursday, 6-9 p.m., Lab II 2207 and Lab II 2211. This is a program for working and non-working adults who are engaged in making changes in their lives: changes in career, in education, in family condition, in life-style, in spiritual values, in life goals. The program is based on these premises: that our culture doesn't prepare most of us very well to expect, understand, or deal with adult life changes; that such changes or transitions are, however, common and often disruptive; and that we can gain considerable understanding of them by looking at the recent social science research on them and at classic and modern literary treatments of them, and by some practice in a few personal and interpersonal skills. In addition to a better understanding of their own life changes and of adult life changes in general, students will gain academic skills for further study in literature and social science.

Prerequisites: None.
Class size limit: 24.

AMERICA'S MUSIC IN CULTURAL CONTEXTS*

Course [4 quarter hours]

A study of algebraic structures, including groups, rings and fields.

Prerequisites: A first year course in calculus recommended.
Class size limit: 24. Auditors allowed.

CONTRACTS IN DATA PROCESSING

Contract [credits variable]
James Johnson, Adjunct Member of the Faculty (Computer Science) 866-6232.

Offered by arrangement. Individual contracts for a variety of topics in data processing may be negotiated with the instructor. Primary interest areas of the instructor are social implications of computer and systems analysis.

Prerequisites: Approval of faculty
Class size limit: 6.

CONTRACTS IN INTRODUCTORY COBOL PROGRAMMING

Course [4 quarter hours]
Randy Rahn, Adjunct Member of the Faculty (Computer Science), 866-6232. Tuesday, 10-11 a.m., Thursday, 10 a.m.-noon, Lib. 2405.

Students will learn to use basic elements of the COBOL language. Topics to include sequential file handling, multi-level reporting, table handling, structured design will be stressed. Programs will be submitted in batch mode on a remote job entry terminal.

Prerequisites: Working knowledge of one other computer language.
Class size limit: 6.

CONTRACTS IN SYSTEMS ANALYSIS

Contract [4 quarter hours]
Don Nickolaus, Adjunct Member of the Faculty (Computer Science) 866-6232.

Offered by arrangement. This contract is a survey of the discipline used by a Systems Analyst working with administrative systems. A textbook and a number of current journal articles will be used for study materials. A case study will be used to draw the material together.

Prerequisites: Approval of faculty
Class size limit: 6.

CONTRACTS IN SYSTEMS PROGRAMMING

Contract [credits to be negotiated]
Chas Douglass, Adjunct Member of the Faculty (Computer Science), 866-6232.

Offered by arrangement. Individual contracts for advanced computer science students interested in operating systems and/or other systems programming.

Prerequisites: Approval of faculty
Class size limit: 6.

DATA STRUCTURES I

Course [4 quarter hours]
Dale Baird, Adjunct Member of the Faculty (Computer Science), 866-6232.

Monday and Wednesday, 3-5 p.m., Lib. 2507. During the first portion of the term, students will learn how to design and code well-structured BASIC computer programs. Once students' programming skills have been polished, primitive structures (data storage), string manipulation, and linear data structures (array, stack and queues) will be studied. Data Structures is considered an essential topic in most computer science curriculums and will continue Winter Quarter.

Prerequisites: Introduction to Computers and Programming; Instructor's permission.
Class size limit: 18.

EVOLUTION OF SOCIABILITY*

Course [4 quarter hours]
Dr. Sally Mendoza, Adjunct Member of the Faculty (Biology), 866-6751.

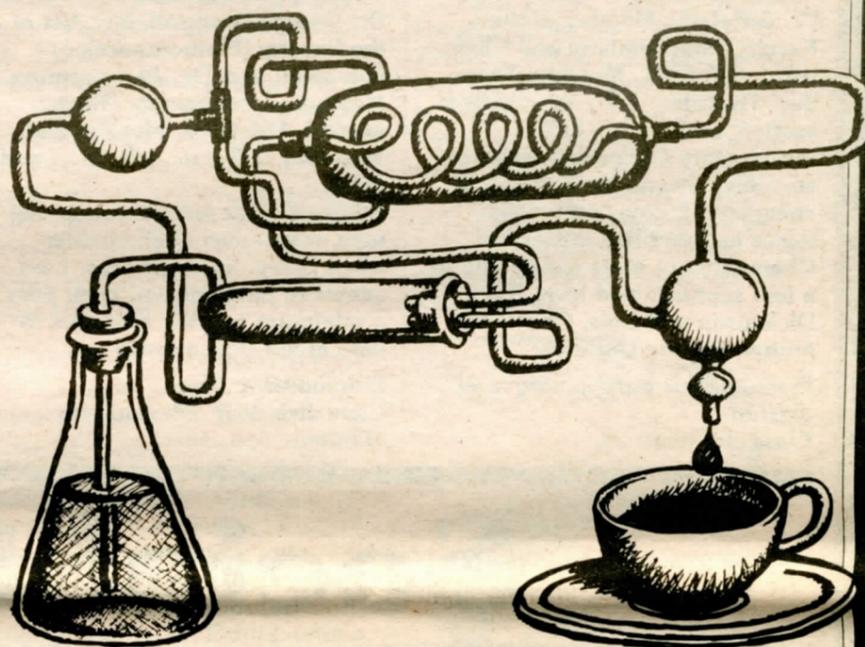

Wednesday, 7-10 p.m., Lib. 2118. Study of primate behavior and evolution with emphasis on those characteristics which promote or result from living in complex social groups.

Prerequisites: None.
Class size limit: 24.

GENERAL CHEMISTRY

Course [4 quarter hours]
Dr. Fred Tabbutt, Member of the Faculty (Chemistry), 866-6713.

Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, 1-2 p.m., problem session, 3-4:30 p.m., LH 4. This college chemistry course assumes some background in chemistry. It will cover topics in atomic theory, chemical equi-brium, thermodynamics, and molecular structure at an advanced level. Text: Mahan, University Chemistry.

Prerequisites: High School chemistry or equivalent. Entrance based upon proficiency exam.
Class size limit: 24.

HUMAN HEALTH AND BEHAVIOR*

Course [8 quarter hours]
Dr. Diana Cushing, Member of the Faculty (Psychology), 866-6159.

Offered by arrangement. An examination of human health and behavior emphasizing the period from conception to puberty. Topics covered include: genetics, developmental psychology, physiology and some nutrition.

This first course toward acquiring accounting skills covers the basic structure of accounting, receiving, inventories, deferrals, accruals, plant assets and intangible assets.

Prerequisites: Algebra.
Class size limit: 30. No auditors.

INTRODUCTION TO CALCULUS

Course [4 quarter hours]
Dr. Byron Youtz, Academic Vice President, Provost and Member of the Faculty (Physics), 866-6400.
Tuesday, 2-3 p.m., Thursday, 3-4 p.m., Friday, 1-2 p.m., Morning problem session to be arranged; Lib. 1612.

This course will cover the derivative, chain rule, the mean value theorem, inverse functions and some integration.

Prerequisites: Knowledge of algebra and trigonometry. Entrance into the course will be based upon proficiency in an examination to cover these expected topics. [Contact Fred Tabbutt, 866-6713, for more information.]
Class size limit: 24.

INTRODUCTION TO COLLEGE CHEMISTRY

Course [4 quarter hours]
Dr. Lee Anderson, Member of the Faculty (Physical Science), 866-6713.

Monday, 2-3 p.m., Thursday, 2-3 p.m., and Friday, 11-12; Morning problem session to be arranged; Lib. 1612. This course will cover topics in mechanics using vectors, calculus and Newton's Laws.

Prerequisites: Equivalent of one quarter of calculus or be taking Introduction to Calculus concurrently.
Class size limit: 24.

INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTERS AND BASIC

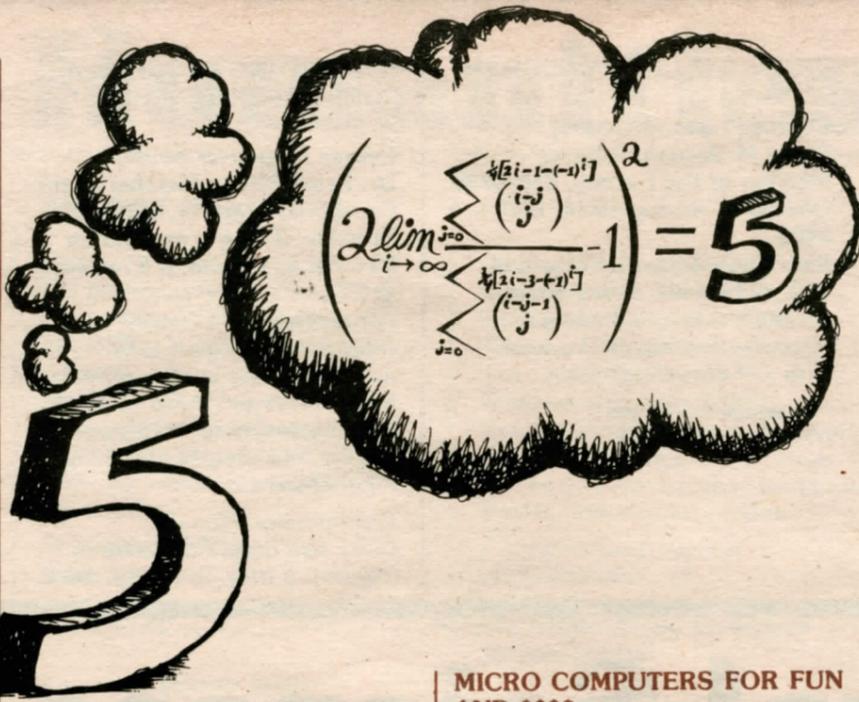

Course [4 quarter hours]
Dr. John Aikin, Director of Computer Services and Member of the Faculty (Computer Science), 866-6232.
Offered by arrangement after orientation meeting, October 2, 7 p.m., Lib. 2406.
This self-paced module provides introduction to computers. Using the PLATO system of computer-assisted instruction (CAI), students learn what computers are, how they are used and how to program a computer in the BASIC language. Agreed upon project must be completed as well as passing a written examination to receive credit.

Prerequisites: None.
Class size limit: Unlimited.

INTRODUCTORY CHEMISTRY

Course [4 quarter hours]
Dr. Jeff Kelly, Member of the Faculty (Biochemistry and Chemistry), 866-6731. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, 1-2 p.m.; problem session 3-4:30 p.m., LH3.
Introductory Chemistry assumes students have no background in chemistry. It covers the same topics as described in General Chemistry but more slowly and at a less sophisticated level. Text: Dickenson and Geis, Chemistry, Matter and the Universe.

Prerequisites: Introductory level algebra.
Class size limit: 24.

MATH LAB: ALGEBRA OR TRIGONOMETRY

Course [4 quarter hours]
Dr. George Dimitroff, Member of the Faculty (Mathematics), 866-6604; and Dr. Al Leisenring, Member of the Faculty (Mathematics), 866-6763. Monday and Thursday, 7-9 p.m., Lib. 2129 and 2204.
Students work independently and take exams over each chapter when ready. Students must pass exams to progress and must pass a minimum number of exams to earn credit (PSI course).

Prerequisites: None.
Class size limit: 24. Auditors allowed.

MICRO COMPUTERS FOR FUN AND $$$

Course [4 quarter hours]
John Munro, Adjunct Member of the Faculty (Computer Science), 866-6232. Monday and Wednesday, 5:30-7:30 p.m., Lib. 2507.
By studying Osborne's "Micro-Computing Vol. O," students will learn about micro-computers. A survey of current micro-computing market will help students determine whether they should acquire a system and decide what system would satisfy their needs. Students will also study Jerald Brown's "Instant BASIC" to learn how to write BASIC computer programs.

Prerequisites: None.
Class size limit: 24.

NATURE OF NATURAL SCIENCE

Course [4 quarter hours]
Dr. Burton S. Guttman, Member of the Faculty (Biology), 866-6731 Tuesday and Thursday, 5:30-7:30 p.m., Lab I 3033.
Introduction to the logic, thought patterns, and mathematical basis of science. The spirit and methodology of modern science, with some attention to its social aspects.

ALUMS REPORT JOB SUCCESS

Evergreen graduates are faring well in today's job market, with 85% of the 1977/78 class now employed or in graduate school, according to the latest annual report issued by Gail Martin, Evergreen's Coordinator of Career Planning and Placement.

Graduates surveyed this spring report they are working in a wide range of jobs, with the largest group (14%) employed in counseling and social services.
Public and business administration, education, and environmental sciences are other popular fields, with smaller numbers employed in medicine, fine arts, computer science, urban planning, law enforcement, and other areas.

The number of graduates in professional positions is slightly higher this year than for past classes, the report shows, with 68% employed as biologists, planners, artists, teachers, writers, counselors, accountants, or in other positions requiring a college degree.

Para-professional positions such as marketing assistant, survey party chief, assistant general manager, or administrative assistant account for 19% of the 1977/78 graduates now employed. The remaining 13% of employed graduates are working in non-professional jobs. Students chose non-professional work for a variety of reasons, including to finance their way through graduate school or to finance travel, art, or volunteer work, placement director Martin notes.

Graduate school attracted 9% of the 1977/78 class, but the report shows higher percentages of earlier classes now enrolled in graduate study.

"Many Evergreen students choose to go immediately into the job market after graduation," Martin says. "They tell us they want to be self-sufficient, pay off college bills, or take a look at the real world before they apply to graduate school," she explains.

THREE SUCCEED AT EVERGREEN

A state patrolman, Children's Bureau representative and a county CETA program director may not seem to have much in common. But three persons in those positions, all recent students at Evergreen, have found successful answers to their education needs through individually designed academic programs offered at their nearest state college.

Frank Russell, assistant personnel officer with the Olympia office of the State Patrol, needed course work to complement his change from law enforcement to personnel work.

Because of Evergreen's "flexibility", Russell said he was able to study what he needed in a contract studies program, taking what he needed, when he needed it, and in his free time.

Bernice Morehead, DSHS
employee, came to TESC to finish her undergraduate work before continuing on for a master's degree.

Ms. Morehead says Evergreen is the place for self-motivated students, because there are no limits to the resources available there.

"Someone will help you get what you need," Morehead explained, "including the students who are older and bring their life experiences - which are resources in themselves - to the classroom. It was just right for me."

For county worker Cheryl Phillips, Evergreen was the only alternative for getting a college education.
And through work done with the External Credit office, regular academic programs and individual contracts, Phillips will earn her degree by next Spring.

"The faculty is flexible with working people," Phillips pointed out, "but they do understand when your job suddenly requires a lot of your time and they help you meet your responsibilities. I've grown with my job, thanks to my education, and now I'm interested in Evergreen's masters degree program."

INTERNS IMPROVE COUNTY HANDICAPPED ACCESS

Handicapped voters in Thurston County will find it easier to get to the polls now, thanks to a project recently completed by Evergreen student Wendy Lebow.

Working as an intern at the county auditor's office, Lebow spent Spring Quarter looking at the problems handicapped persons face getting into polling places.

"I first researched federal and state guidelines for handicap access to public buildings and then went out to evaluate each Thurston County polling place in terms of those guidelines," the 23-year-old Evergreen junior explained.

Research completed, she prepared an extensive report for Gery McIntosh, supervisor of elections. That report, "something of a first in the field," detailed her recommendations for changes to be made in polling place accessibility.

In June, Lebow and Evergreen student photographer James Keller prepared a slide show on handicap access to the polls which she presented to the state auditors' convention in Richland.

Today, because of Lebow's work, changes are being made to improve polling place access. In Thurston County, some polling locations have been moved and some facility operators have agreed to put in ramps or cut down curbs for wheelchair access.

By speaking to local Kiwanis groups, Lebow has also been able to win financial support for three additional access ramps to be used at fire halls or private residence polling places.

In other counties auditors are also using Lebow's project for guidance, and calls are coming in from across the U.S. asking for copies of her report.

Presently employed at the auditor's office, Lebow is now planning another contract project for Fall Quarter.

CPE STUDY PROMPTS CURRICULUM CHANGE

During the past nine months, Evergreen has adopted an "evolving" system for curricular planning, abolished the Evergreen unit," adopted a bachelor of science degree program, created a teacher certification offering, expanded its outreach efforts in cities beyond Thurston County, and begun major steps toward implementing its first graduate program.

The changes were prompted by a study of Evergreen funded by the Washington State Legislature in 1977 and carried out by the staff of the Council for Post Secondary Education last fall. The resulting report, known as the CPE study, urged that Evergreen be given a four-year breathing space in which to double its enrollment while maintaining and strengthening its commitment to interdisciplinary studies.

Focusing its emphasis on improving the college's curriculum and increasing the educational services Evergreen provides to citizens of Southwest Washington, the CPE study led to creation of faculty committees and student groups and to campus-wide discussions of its recommendations. The on-campus work culminated with faculty recommendations in June for an evolving curriculum to provide greater academic predictability for current and future students.

The evolutionary nature of the curriculum, say faculty, will first be felt in Basic Programs which, for the 1980-81 academic year, will be selected from past offerings that have been successfully planned and implemented. Evolving Basic Programs will then be repeated and improved in successive years, retaining a sizeable proportion of the same faculty each year. Annually, a few new Basic Programs will also be added to enrich the Basic Program pool.

The Interdisciplinary Specialty Areas, which provide opportunities for advanced academic work, will implement a similar evolutionary planning strategy. Each specialty area will develop plans four years in advance in two, two-year cycles. Thus, students wishing to specialize will be better able to develop long-range academic plans. At the same time, faculty members from each specialty area will be appointed to work with the Office of Career Planning and Placement to develop and deliver advice on curricular pathways and career options so students can also better plan for "life after Evergreen"

Annual programs, the faculty agree, should be maintained as "an important home" for new programs of an experimental nature and for programs initiated by current students.

To make Evergreen's academic system more readily understood and student transcripts more easily read, the college this year moved to abolish its traditional Evergreen unit, which was equivalent to four quarter hours of academic credit. Instead, Evergreen now measures its academic credit in quarter hours like four of the other five state colleges and universities. Hence, current students are no longer required to complete 45 Evergreen units for graduation; instead, they must accrue a minimum of 180 quarter credit hours.

B.S. Degree Available

Following recommendations from both students and the CPE study team, Evergreen began this spring to offer a Bachelor of Science degree in addition to its Bachelor of Arts program. To earn the new B.S. degree, students must complete 72 quarter hours of credit in the natural sciences and mathematics, 48 hours of which must be at an advanced level.

Students interested in seeking the B.S. degree should declare their intentions at the beginning of their senior year and seek the advice of a faculty member in the sciences.

Still under consideration by faculty members and academic deans is a proposal to enable students to earn designated degrees (Bachelor of Science or Bachelor of Arts) in one of the nine specialty areas.

The needs of area residents and public employees attracted special attention in both the CPE study and the faculty committees. Their deliberations resulted in a new plan which will progressively provide more part-time and evening curricular options.

EVERGREEN AND UPS BEGIN TEACHER PREP

A unique arrangement with Tacoma's University of Puget Sound will bring a new teacher certification program to Evergreen students beginning this fall.

Created with the encouragement of both the Washington State Legislature and the State Council for Post-Secondary Education, the new Evergreen program will provide teacher training this year for 60 students selected from among some 185 applicants.

Beginning October 1, UPS faculty will teach courses required by education students seeking a primary or secondary state certification. UPS will also supervise Evergreen students during their state-required practice teaching.

Students who complete both the UPS taught courses and Evergreen graduation requirements will be awarded a B.A. degree from Evergreen and provisional teaching certificate from UPS.

Current teachers will also benefit from the new arrangement which enables Evergreen to design evening or weekend courses especially for persons seeking to complete the 45 credit hours of additional college work they need to gain permanent credentials.

The new program has proven to be extremely popular and is already full for Fall Quarter 1979. A waiting list for fall 1980 has been established in the Office of Admissions, 866-6170.

Athletic Director Pete Steilberg (center) discusses intercollegiate sports program with Swim coach Don Martin and Soccer coach Ivan Raznjevic

NEW COACHES PLAN FIRST SPORTS PROGRAMS

Veteran swim coach Don Martin of Olympia, and former professional soccer player Ivan Raznjevic, of Portland, have been hired to direct development of their sports at Evergreen this fall.

The two men, who began their new duties September 1, are the first intercollegiate coaches in Evergreen's history. Their efforts will be expanded upon during the next eight years as Evergreen begins participation in a total of 16 sports as a member of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, and possibly the Northwest Conference.

Sports on tap by 1985 are expected to include: tennis, cross country running, wrestling, synchronized swimming, rowing, golf, fencing, springboard diving, sailing, down hill and Nordic skiing, gymnastics, volleyball and basketball.

Martin and Raznjevic have begun recruiting and preparing the college's first intercollegiate swimming and soccer squads, which have tentative plans for a number of meets this year.

GEODUCK IS OFFICIAL MASCOT

The Geoducks stuck it out — through a month-long nominating process, an all-campus ballot, a check with the college's external public relations firm and approval by the board of trustees. Never ones to fear digging in during strenuous times, the Evergreen bivalves hung on with all their necks until this summer they were officially declared the college mascot. Along with Evergreen's official colors of green and white, Geoducks will soon adorn college uniforms, campus folders, book-covers, and assorted athletic and promotional paraphernalia. But the tides will not flow smoothly for the mussel-bound clams whose somewhat repugnant appearance tends not to strike fear in the hearts of their enemies but repulsion.

As Athletic Director Pete Steilberg observes, "though the competitive strategy of the Geoducks may emphasize defensive moves, to most of their opponents they'll be quite offensive in nature." But Steilberg — and coaches Don Martin and Ivan Raznjevic — are confident the crusty rubber necks will squirt off the attacks of their competitors and, before soccer and swim seasons are over, will join shells in singing a victorious "Go Geoducks Go."

Go Go-Ey-Ducks go! Through the Mud and the Sand, Let's Go. Siphon High, Squirt it Out, Swivel All About. Let It All Hang Out.

Go Go-Ey-Ducks, Go. Stretch Your Necks When the Tide is Low.

Siphon High, Squirt it Out, Swivel all about, Let it all hang out.

Persons with inquiries about Evergreen services in Olympia may contact the following offices by phoning their numbers below or writing the office, c/o The Evergreen State College, Olympia, WA 98505.

CONTACTING EVERGREEN

Washington State Uniform Application and official transcripts of any college work completed. Forms and assistance with the admissions procedure are available from the Admissions office, 866-6170.

At Evergreen, you may try out college for a quarter or two as a part-time student simply by filling out the special student application and registration form when you sign up for classes. Special students receive credit and evaluations. Work completed as a special student will be credited toward your Evergreen degree whenever you decide to apply for regular admission. Special student application and registration forms are available from the Registrar's office, at the Academic Fair September 25, or from Earlyse Swift at off-campus registration sessions. Regular admission applicants must submit a completed Cooperative Education 866-6391.

ADMISSION PROCESS EXPLAINED

Take an EXAMINATION to document knowledge gained outside college that is equivalent to a college course. Examinations are administered in a wide range of subjects. Contact the Registrar's office, 866-6180. Direct your own learning in the computer-based PLATO center or LAB. Computers, films, slides, programmed text and carefully designed hands-on projects will help you learn a variety of subjects at your own speed. Contact PLATO, 866-6270, or Self-Paced Learning, 866-6490.

CREDIT OPTIONS DEFINED

Evergreen offers students many options for generating credit other than working in the usual classroom situation. At Evergreen you can:

TRANSFER CREDITS from previous college work. Contact Admissions, 866-6170.

DEVELOP AN INDIVIDUAL LEARNING CONTRACT with a faculty member. Contracts provide an opportunity for individually tailored study and may include research, reading, special projects or internships. Contracts are best used by upper division students at Evergreen. Contact Academic Advising, 866-6312.

Serve as an INTERN. Internships may be either paid or unpaid work in a "real world" environment. Many types of work in government agencies, private business, or volunteer organizations may serve as appropriate learning environments for internships. An internship must be related to your academic objectives and must promote new learning, not merely duplicate what you ordinarily do on the job. Contact the Office of Cooperative Education 866-6391. Apply for EXTERNAL CREDIT for knowledge gained outside college. Contact the Office of Cooperative Education 866-6391.
